

Public Utilities Continues Probe

Hind, Ralph and Company Representatives Find Proposed Inter-Island Freight Rates Satisfactory, So They Testify

The public utilities commission continued its investigation of the Inter-Island Steam Navigation Company last Tuesday. John K. Clarke, manager of Hind, Ralph & Company, testified in regard to the cattle rate from Kailua to Honolulu in comparison with the rates charged shippers from Maui ports. He considered the old rates entirely satisfactory.

Attorney L. J. Warren for the Inter-Island protested against the expression "increased rates," which had been used by Commissioner Garden. He claimed that the rates are not an increase for the company, taking them all in all.

Those present were Charles R. Forbes, Alexis J. Gignoux and William T. Carwen, public utility commissioners; James L. McLean, vice-president, and Norman E. Gedde, secretary-treasurer of the Inter-Island, and L. J. Warren their attorney; Clarence H. Olson, attorney for various Maui and Hawaii ranches, and John K. Clarke.

Tuna Club Plans For Its Opening

ence of members and visiting anglers, with professional fishermen in attendance. There will also be automobile service between the club house and Waialua, to enable guests to visit the many places of interest.

During the past ten days, seven mainland anglers have been fishing from Kihel in the Molokini waters, all of whom have made catches of large game fish. Miss Clemens, a cousin of the late Mark Twain, was also able to bring to gaff a large ulua with regulation rod and reel; this is the first lady to land a game fish in Hawaiian waters, with regulation tackle, under club rules and regulations.

The officers and directors of the Hawaii Tuna Club are: Gerrit P. Wilder, president; Richard Ivers, first vice-president; J. P. Cooke, second vice-president; H. Gooding Field, hon. secretary; J. R. Galt, treasurer; J. A. Balch and George P. Cooke. The membership of the club is sixty, a number of whom are well known mainland anglers and members of the Catalina Tuna Club. The Hawaii Tuna Club has been organized along the lines of the Arkansas Pass Tarpon Club and the Catalina Club, with the same club rules and regulations as to tackle and weighing conditions.

The Hawaii Tuna Club has twelve handsome silver cups offered for fishing competitions among the club members and guests, and the club awards gold, silver and bronze buttons for record catches of game fish.

J. H. Mackenzie, assistant secretary of the club and well known as a sportsman, will be in charge of the clubhouse. From the wide spread interest shown in the clubhouse and arrangements among Honolulu anglers, week-end parties will become a regular feature.

Maui Embezzlers Given Sentences

Former Paia and Pauwela Postmasters Are Given Three Years And Eighteen Months Terms In Prison By Federal Judge—Fines Are Amount Of Defalcations

Morris K. Keohokale, former postmaster at Paia, confessed embezzler, sentenced to three years in Oahu prison and to pay a fine of $250, the total of thirteen separate defalcations. Nelson K. Kaloa, former postmaster at Pauwela, confessed embezzler, sentenced to eighteen months in Oahu prison and to pay a fine of $816.81, the total defalcation.

With the foregoing sentences imposed by Federal Judge Horace W. Vaughan last Monday morning, the two Maui postoffice embezzlement cases have been wiped of the federal court calendar. Both defendants, who were arrested following investigations made by Postoffice Inspector Thomas J. Flavin, pleaded guilty. They began the serving of their sentences Monday.

"I used it for my family," said Keohokale, one time secretary to the delegate to Congress, when asked by the court what he had done with the $250. Keohokale is fifty-one years old and has a wife and two children. E. A. Douthitt, his counsel, delivered an eloquent address in which he pleaded leniency for his client. In reply U. S. Attorney S. C. Huber declared that because he had a family was one reason why the defendant should not have strayed from the path of rectitude, "and," he added, "there is evidence to show that the defendant attempted to cover up his defalcations."

The indictment against Keohokale continued thirteen separate counts, each alleging an embezzlement. It also showed that the money was taken during a period of less than seven months. He was sentenced to serve three years on each count, and had it not been ordered that the sentences run concurrent, the prison sentence would have been thirty-nine instead of three years.

Nelson Kaloa, who has a wife and six children and who had been postmaster at Pauwela for about two years, said that he spent the embezzled funds on himself. The records of his office, the U. S. Attorney pointed out, showed that he made no attempt to cover up his defalcations. He was not represented by counsel when he appeared in court, nor has he had an attorney since his arrest.

In both cases U. S. Attorney Huber asked for substantial punishment, declaring that something must be done to deter others from committing similar offenses.

Trees Now Ready For Arbor Day

The Division of Forestry will be glad to furnish trees as usual for November 17th. Trees will be available at the Government Nursery in Honolulu and also at the sub-nurseries, one in Hilo, Hawaii and the other at Homestead, Kauai. The nursery at Hilo is in charge of Brother Matthias Newell and the one at Homestead, Kauai is in charge of Mr. Walter D. McBryde. Appended is a list of the trees available for Arbor Day at the Government Nursery, Honolulu:

Golden Shower, Cassia Fistula
Pink Shower, Cassia Grandis
Pink and White Shower, Cassia Nodosa
Royal Poinciana, Poinciana Regia
Yellow Poinciana, Peltophorum ferrugineum
Jacaranda, Jacaranda Mimosaeifolia
Pepper Tree, Schinus Mole
African Tulip Tree, Spathodea campanulata
St. Thomas Tree, Bauhinia Tomentosa

Texas Umbrella, Melia Azedarach
Ear Pod Tree, Enterolobium cyclocarpum
Silk Oak, Grevillea Robusta
Ironwood, Casuarina Equisetifolia
Japan Cedar (Sugi), Cryptomeria Japonica
Blue Gum, Eucalyptus Globulus
Lemon Gum, Eucalyptus Citridora
Swamp Mahogany, Eucalyptus Robusta

Each applicant is entitled to twenty-four trees free of charge. People living within a reasonable distance of either of those nurseries should apply directly to the gentleman named. Those desiring trees from the nursery in Honolulu who wish them shipped by the Inter-Island steamers should place their orders as soon as possible and not later than November 6.

Captain Smith's License Suspended

United States Inspectors Blame Lurline Master For Ship's Accident Off Makapuu—Vessel Brings Maui Freight

Captain Joel Smith, master of the Matson steamer Lurline, which touched a submerged rock off Makapuu Point, Oahu, a week ago last Wednesday morning, has been suspended for thirty days by the United States inspectors who held an investigation in Honolulu. They announce in their findings that they accuse Captain Smith of negligence and carelessness, on three counts.

The Lurline, after installing a number of pumps, was allowed to come to Kahului and discharge her Maui freight, following a delay of nearly a week. Captain J. O. Peterson, former commander of the vessel. From Kahului, the Lurline sailed for the coast where it is estimated that it will be layed up for a month while repairs are being made.

First, in the opinion of the inspectors, Captain Smith ran his vessel on too close a course both before and after he picked up the Makapuu light. Second, that after passing that light he hugged the shore, remaining within three-quarters of a mile to a mile from land, when he should have steered into the twenty miles of navigable sea to port. Third, that he failed to stop his vessel, after either the first or second jar, and cast for depth, thus manifesting lack of judgement.

Ka Hoomanau Nui Wao

(A young Maui poet, with a pessimistic strain, has sent some verses to the Maui News for publication. He signs himself, John S. Sabey. Poet, with the after explanation: "But also, Bread-Winner, More or Less.")

This world is so full of babbling tongues
Which argue, palaver and chatter.
That I wonder if honor weren't meant
For the lungs
In the triumph of mind over matter.

Each tries to stem that stream of Life
(So willy-willy flowing)
With gallant shouts, amid the strife;
"This is the way we are going!"

And the ways they have pointed I've earnestly tested
Full many of them have I trod
Till I've found that, alike, with dangers infested
Are the highways of Satan and God.

Dispairing at last of this wearisome game
Of choosing the Right from the Wrong
I've pulled up my stakes on Virtue and Fame
And taken to Woman and Song.

For now a new Master is leading the Dance;
I'm wondering yet how I found Him.
With Him neither Devil nor God stands a chance,
He frightens them both off—confound him.

He has opened the Vault of Life's greatest treasures
And shown me the bounty therein
Of rapture serene, and infinite pleasures,
Which regard neither Goodness nor Sin.

He has taught me that living this Life at its best
Can only be had when, somehow,
I am guided by "ME," and not by the Rest
When it comes to a Moral Powwow.

He has taught me that Nature most covets the man
Who reasons his way alone
And explores all the limits of Her magnificent Plan
And discovers a Soul of his own.

He has faithfully loaned me a helping hand
Where others have shown me cold feet.
He has quietly shown me the big Lemon Stand
At the South end of Easy Street.

From Him I have learned that the much noted task
Of winning the Cup made of Gold
Was fashioned for fools, too vacant to ask:
"What manner of Drink does it hold?"

Tho the idea is rampant the Sweet Bye and Bye
Will be Blissful, Peaceful and Grand.
He gives me the Wink, I had better not buy
Any Stock in the Promised Land.

From Him I have learned that a Maiden so Fair
And pure as a Mountain-poppy
Is a far better place to invest a deep prayer
Than the Land of the Sweet Mahope.

He has led me along thru Thick and thru Thin
And we've grown so chummy that, now,
I have sworn to stick by him no matter what in
Till the day comes along when I'm pau.

Perhaps you are wondering who this Guy is
Who has kept the Glooms up a tree
And taken such marvelous care of my "Biz"
I'll tell you: He's just, simply ME.

Bronze Revue Will Score Big Heat

Memories of George Primehose, Billy Kersans, Dan Rice and all those old heroes of negro minstrelsy, burnt cork artists par excellence, were revived last night when the "Bronze Revue," brought here by Hen Wise and Frank Poole, began its engagement before a Bijou audience which was packed literally to the doors.

The Bronze Revue is a potpourri of songs, dances, "stunts," or music, mirth and melody; of solos and choruses; of clogs and double shuffles; of "barber shop" chords and quartet selections. It is shot over the footlights at a mile a minute, to the accompaniment of tinkling tamborines, rat-tapping of agile feet, jokes of old and new vintage, and all the melange of a "refined colored show."

With the audience which turned out last night the Bronze Revue scored an immense hit from the "grand opening chorus" to the "grand finale." Every artist was encircled to the limit. No favorite can be played in "reviewing the Revue," but it may be said that the Swanee River Quartet, Poole, Brown, Banks and Young, was an immense success.

A number of good voices were displayed a surprising amount of clever dancing, eccentric and otherwise, and the performance moved rapidly from start to finish. The second half had a splendid thread of narrative about a plantation on which to hang the musical numbers. It should be mentioned as one of the agreeable features of the performance that there was not the slightest taint of nastiness about it, not an evil joke or a suggestive song, which is more than can be said for some companies which have played here.

The Bronze Revue will open their Maui season at the Kahului Lyceum Saturday.

Republican Rally Is well Attended

bitter arraignment of Democratic non-action.

The Honolulu attorney, also, made a plea for the election of both the Republican candidates for senator. He compared the ten per cent increase of the Maui county employees' wages with the act of the national administration in passing the Adamson 8-hour bill for the railway trainmen. He declared that it only increased the wage of the higher paid workmen and that men who got less than two dollars a day were not benefited. He credited Dr. Raymond with securing the passage of the wage increase resolution by the Maui supervisors.

In closing, Breckons urged that Maui sustain its reputation by remaining the banner Republican county of the group. The way to do this, he said, was to make sure that Cooke, as well as Baldwin, was elected as senator and Raymond defeated.

The Delegate first addressed the audience in Hawaiian, during which he talked for fifteen or twenty minutes, with a steady flow of language which was listened to with rapt attention. Later, he spoke in English, in the course of which he said that this country would in time be governed by commission, unless the right kind of immigration was induced to come to the islands.

That the coming of more white people to the islands was imperative to avoid such a form of government was one of his declarations. While he did not mention the Japanese, he showed that he believed that they would at some time politically control the islands, if the present form of government was continued. This was shown, he averred, by the school records. "But the United States government will never permit them to rule the islands. They will give us commission government instead," he added.

Another statement made by the Delegate was that we are getting our share of "pork" from Congress. He said he was able to secure appropriations from Congress for Hawaii on account of his friendship with the leaders of both of the political parties in Washington.

The three speakers at the political meeting also spoke to a small crowd in Kula on the same day. On Wednesday they went to Lahaina where another meeting was held.

An Odd Accident Befalls Carpenter

Paralyzed from his shoulders down and his nose severed from his face was the fate which befell Manuel Cabral, a carpenter, while working on the repairs of the Antonio Dorego house on last Monday, as a result of falling a distance of only seven feet. He was on a shaky ladder when the accident happened and had a saw in his hand. Someway in falling the saw struck his nose and cut the end completely off. He was taken to the hospital where it was discovered that he was paralyzed. Hopes are expressed that he will recover the use of his body. Dr. St. Sure, who attended him, sewed his nose in position again, after he was given treatment for his other injuries.

Personal Mention

W. A. Baldwin was a visitor to Honolulu last week.

Miss Amy Swain, the Kahului kindergarten teacher, is dangerously ill in the Walluku hospital.

J. J. Jones, husband of the Walluku librarian, is reported to be seriously ill.

Mrs. Manuel Rosa of Paia was committed to the insane asylum in Judge Anjo's court at Makawao this week.

C. Hansen of Paia spent a portion of his annual vacation in Honolulu.

Mrs. A. C. Rothrock, wife of the Paia physician, has returned from a trip to the coast.

W. F. Buckley, a representative of the Advertiser, is on Maui on a business trip. He expects to remain here for a "out one month."

E. B. Bridgewater, former editor of the Garden Island on Kauai, now a resident of Honolulu, is spending his vacation and visiting friends on Maui.

Mrs. Pharo, wife of the Orpheum manager, and daughter Alma, will leave soon for a visit with relatives in Australia.

A. J. de Souza will be at home at his residence from 7:30 a. m. on Tuesday, October 31st—the birthday of the Japanese Emperor—to receive his Japanese friends.

Walter A. Engle, former Maui resident, now chief clerk of the territorial land department, accompanied by Mrs. Engle and two children, returned to Honolulu on the Wilhelmina.

Edwin B. Carley, manager of the Maui telephone system, returned on the Lurline from a trip to the coast. While away he made an extended tour of the United States.

D. C. Lindsay, cashier of the Baldwin National Bank at Kahului, and this island's member on the educational commission, returned in the Wilhelmina from a visit of several months on the mainland.

Alfred Nunes and Miss Guilhermina Batalha were married on the 13th of this month by Reverend Father Bruno in the Lahaina Catholic Church. Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Peters of Paia were the witnesses.

Reverend Samuel K. Kamaioili, assistant pastor of the Kaunakakai Church in Honolulu, was called to Walluku this week as witness in the land suit instituted by the Bishop Estate against Keakalan.

W. D. Aiken, who is making a long trip through the states, has written Maui friends from Boston where he was a spectator of some of the earlier games of the world's base ball series. "See Hawaii and hear Hawaiian" is the catch phrase of nearly every theatre in the east, he writes.

Ed. Peck, for many years a resident of Maui, but during the last three years at Oahu, Hawaii, has returned from a six months trip to the Philippines. He went to the islands with the intention of remaining there on one of the big sugar estates but was attacked by malaria and had to return to Hawaii.

V. L. Stevenson, a former editor of the Maui News, has received the news of the death of his cousin, Lieut. Harry Stevenson of the Cheshire Regiment, who was killed while leading his men in an attack on Combes on the Somme front. The newspaperman has eleven relatives at the front in France.

Miss Dorothy Brook was "operated upon for appendicitis" last Saturday evening by Dr. St. Sure and Dr. Sawyer. The operation was successful and she is now rapidly recovering. She had intended to return to her home in Australia on the Niagara November 1, but will now probably remain here until after Christmas with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. West.

R. W. Breckons, who paid Maui a political visit this week, was quoted in the Advertiser as saying: "That was bully of Hatch, that coming to the rescue of Cupid against the criticisms made concerning his staying away from Washington. Cupid knows what he is doing. What the people of Hawaii ought to do is back him up more and pat him on the back with greater frequency. Cupid has done much for Hawaii and is going back to congress to do a lot more."

NATIONAL GUARD WARNS AGAINST UNAUTHORIZED WEARING OF EQUIPMENT

Following the lead of the regular army in an effort to abolish the buying and selling of federal equipment, the National Guard of Hawaii has issued a general order to safeguard the interests of the government.

The order calls attention to the fact that an article may be seized if found in possession of an unauthorized person, which seizure may be made by any officer of the army or the guard, and that further any person in the military service may secure the seizure by calling upon the federal marshal or the police. Guard officers are instructed not to allow an article abandoned or removed from armory or storeroom without specific authority.

The fine for purchasing or receiving such article is between $300 and $500, by imprisonment of not more than six months, or by both. The order is signed by Brig-Gen. Samuel I. Johnson.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of the late E. J. Silva wishes to express their sincere thanks to their many friends and relatives for all the sympathy they have extended to them in their sad bereavement and also to those who sent and brought flowers.

Mrs. E. J. SILVA and Children.
